Trinity College was founded in 1554, and dedicated to "the Holy and Undivided Trinity" by Sir Thomas Pope, of Tyttenhanger, Herts, Privy Councillor to Henry VIII. and Queen Mary. It stands on the site of a Benedictine monastery known as Durham College, which was founded 1286 and suppressed at the dissolution of the monasteries. Some of the buildings are of recent date, though a good portion of the old Durham College still in existence.
